

CROMWELL CENTERSQUARE REAL ESTATE FUND

▶ REITS: A Portfolio Diversifier

As a distinct asset class, publicly traded real estate investment trusts (REITs) are hard assets with distinctive characteristics. As a total return vehicle, REITs can provide diversification to a broad-based portfolio.

REITs have offered the following three advantages to investors:

1. Liquid, cost-efficient investment

Compared to direct real estate ownership, publicly traded REITs tend to hold less leverage, offer a higher level of liquidity, and provide easy access to a diversified portfolio of properties.

2. Historical steady, durable stream of income and attractive appreciation potential

REITs are required to distribute at least 90% of their taxable income to shareholders in a dividend distribution, thereby making income an important component of a REIT's total return. Dividends have historically grown as property cash flows have remained durable and resilient throughout various economic cycles. While not fixed, dividend income from REITs tend to be durable and resilient.

3. Lower correlation to the overall equity market

Due to the income component, REITs have historically low correlation to the overall equity market. As of 12/31/22, the correlation over the past 10 years between the S&P 500 and the FTSE Nareit All Equity REITs Index has averaged 0.72.¹

Mutual fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. The Fund is subject to special risk considerations similar to those associated with the direct ownership of real estate. Real estate valuations may be subject to factors such as changing general and local economic, financial, competitive, and environmental conditions. A greater percentage of the Fund's holdings may be focused in a smaller number of securities which may place the Fund at greater risk than a more diversified fund. Investing in initial public offerings (IPOs) is risky and the prices of stocks purchased in IPOs tend to fluctuate more widely than stocks of companies that have been publicly traded for a longer period of time. Stocks purchased in IPOs generally do not have a trading history, and information about the companies may be available for very limited periods. Market prices of investments held by the Fund may fall rapidly or unpredictably due to a variety of economic or political factors, market conditions, disasters or public health issues, or in response to events that affect particular industries or companies. Companies that are in similar industry sectors may be similarly affected by particular economic or market events; to the extent the Fund has substantial holdings within a particular sector, the risks associated with that sector increase.

Correlation measures the extent to which two or more variables move in relation to each other.

The FTSE Nareit All Equity REITs Index is an index of U.S. equity REITs. Constituents include all tax-qualified REITs with more than 50% of total assets in qualifying real estate assets other than mortgages secured by real property. The S&P 500 Index is a capitalization-weighted index of 500 stocks. The Dow Jones U.S. Select REIT Index measures U.S. publicly traded real estate investment trusts. Indices are unmanaged, are not available for investment and do not incur expenses.

Morningstar Risk Rating is an annualized measure of a fund's downside volatility over a 3-, 5-, or 10-year period. This is a component of the Morningstar Risk-Adjusted Return. Morningstar Risk is displayed in decimal format. A high number indicates higher risk and low numbers indicate lower risk. In each Morningstar Category, the top 10% of investments earn a High rating, the next 22.5% Above Average (+Avg), the middle 35% Average, the next 22.5% Below Average (-Avg), and the bottom 10% Low. The Fund received an Average rating for the 3-year period among 233 Real Estate funds as of 3/31/23. The Fund received a Below Average rating for the 5- and 10-year periods among 209 and 153 Real Estate funds, respectively, as of 3/31/23.
